Rollin' Oldies Car of the Month Cynthia and D.J. Freeman's 1937 and 1938 Plymouths

This is my wife, Cynthia, and me with our '37 and '38 Plymouths. I got the '38 in 1997, in many boxes. It didn't have an interior, no glass, no wiring, no paint. I have done all the work on it and it is still in progress but runs and stops. I got the '37 in 2017. It had been stored for 20 years prior. I have done all that was needed to get it running and stopping. Cynthia and I have taken the cars on many trips and plan to continue driving them for many more years.

Indianapolis 500

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway complex was built in 1909 as a gravel-and-tar track and hosted a smattering of small events. The breakup of the track surface led to two fatal accidents in the first two long-distance events. That persuaded principal owner Carl Fisher to spend $155,000 on repaving the track with 3.2 million bricks.

The crowds grew progressively smaller for the rest of the season, so the track owners chose to focus on a single race. They decided on 500 miles, the estimated distance a race car could run before dark descended on the track, and a spectacular purse of $25,000, equivalent to 83 pounds of gold.

The combination allowed the track to rapidly acquire a privileged status for automobile races.

The first "500" was held at the Speedway in 1911 on Decoration Day, May 30. This year the Indy 500 starts at 9:45 am PT on Sunday, May 29.
